

Suwanshree Acharya
GIT 215: Introduction to Web Authoring (Spring B 2025)
Final Project - Testing
May 2, 2025

Noticable differences in webpage display across different browsers:

| Chrome (dev)                                                       | Firefox                                                                                 | Edge                                                                           |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Contact page body elements have the same width as per wireframe           | Contact page form is wider than the rest of the body elements.                                 | Contact page form is slightly narrower than the rest of the body elements.            |
| Contact page submit button has desired text "Submit"                      | Contact page submit button says "Submit Query", the word "Query" has been added by the browser | Contact page submit button has desired text "Submit"                                  |
| Desired dark text color for top header h1 "Paradise Resort" on index page | Undesired blue text color for top header h1 "Paradise Resort" on index page only               | Undesired blue text color for top header h1 "Paradise Resort" on index page only      |
| Footer text appearing as desired                                          | Footer text appearing as desired                                                               | Footer text has sort of a blur effect, probably due to anti-aliasing browser defaults |